CARSON, CA (July 18, 2008) — USA Cycling and the ADT Event Center at The Home Depot Center are proud to announce that Dr. Brent Kay and the OUCH Sports Medical Center of Temecula, Calif. will be the title sponsor of the 2008 USA Cycling Junior Track Cycling National Championships, August 14-17.

OUCH Sports Medical Center is excited to partner with USA Cycling and The Home Depot Center to support Junior cycling. This sponsorship continues OUCH's strong tradition of supporting track cycling development. OUCH Sports Medical Center also sponsors OUCH Pro Cycling and two-time World Champion and 2008 U.S. Olympic Team member, Sarah Hammer, as well as many other track events, including last year's USA Cycling Collegiate Track National Championships and the Los Angeles UCI World Cup event.

Co-Founded by Dr. Kay and San Diego Chargers Team Physician Dr. Jerry Hizon, the center is staffed with Board Certified Physicians that are dedicated to Primary Care Sports Medicine. More information about OUCH can be found at www.ouchmedicalcenter.com.

Secondary sponsors include the Orange Coast Memorial Medical Center (http://www.memorialcare.org/orange_coast/about.cfm) and Momentum Cycling under the direction of Dr. Howard Marans (www.momentumcycling.com) .

The 2008 USA Cycling Junior Track National Championships presented by OUCH Sports Medicine Center takes place over four days. The races are expected to bring more than 150 of the best junior track riders from around the country. Locally, OUCH has four current Junior National Track Cycling Champions returning in an attempt to repeat their omnium victories achieved last year in Colorado Springs. Sarah Chen, Kit Karzen, Jesse Marans and Coryn Rivera are just four of the many talented riders we have in our cycling community. Race information may be found at <http://www.momentumcycling.com/juniortracknationals/> .
